

The deep connection with our natural environment is the main ingredient of our dishes. In our kitchen, traditional mountain flavours are instilled with creativity and a contemporary twist. When the time is right, we personally pick the wild herbs and edible Alpine flowers which grow in the high-altitude meadows of the Giau Pass. We prepare, store and add them to our dishes using a mixture of traditional and innovative techniques.

In our dishes you could taste Chenopodium Bonus Henricus (Good-King-Henry, also known as poor-man's asparagus), Allium Schoenoprasum (Chives), Allium Victorialis (Wild garlic), Nasturtium Officinale (Watercress), Alchemilla Vulgaris (Lady's mantle), Urtica Dioica (Nettle), Silene Vulgaris (Bladder campion or Maiden's tears), Pino Mugo, Pino Cembro (local Pine), Abete (Fir), Juniperus Communis (Juniper), Cetraria Islandica (Iceland Lichen), Gentiana Lutea (Yellow Gentian), Peucedanum Ostruthium (Masterwort), Rumex Acetosa (Sorrel), Thymus Serpyllum (Wild Thyme), Lotus Corniculatus (Bird's-foot trefoil), Trifolium Pratense (Red Clover), Myosotis (Forget me not), Epilobium Angustifolium (Fireweed), Leucanthemum Vulgare (Daisy), Calendula Officinalis (Pot Marygold), Taraxacum Officinale (Dandelion), Lactuca Alpina (Alpine Sow-thistle), Achillea Millefolium (Yarrow), Achillea Moschata, Veronica Persica (Common Field Speedwell) and Salvia Pratensis (Meadow Sage).

The beautiful place that surrounds us is certainly a pleasure for the sight, but we would like to introduce our guests to the essence of Passo Giau also through the senses of smell and taste, in a pleasant and unique experience.
